

Adult Learners Week and The Big Issue

In 2024, Adult Learning Australia is again partnering with the Big Issue's Women's workforce program to deliver Adult Learners Week.

Since 2010, The Big Issue has provided safe, family-friendly employment opportunities to women impacted by domestic and family violence, homelessness and mental health issues.

Initially employed to pack and send subscription copies of The Big Issue, this service has grown over the years to now include contract work for government, corporate and community organisations.

Adult Learning Australia engages the women workers to pack and send Adult Learners Week promotional posters and bookmarks to adult and community organisations, libraries and other organisations.

These materials are an important part of promoting Adult Learners Week and raising awareness of the opportunities for people to start or return to study as an adult.

Caption: Suzie is one of the women making sure everyone's posters and bookmarks arrive safely

